Stevenson, of Illinois, the Vice-Presidential Candidate of the Democrats.

This Nomination Also Made on the First Ballot—Gray's Name Well Supported.

Details of the Early Morning Voting For the Head of the Ticket —Press Opinions.

CHICAGO, June 23.—There was great confusion early this morning when the state of Alabama was called and with difficulty the chairman made himself heard to announce the scattering vote of the state. The next to vote was Arkansas, with a solid 16 for Cleveland, which was greeted with a storm of applause. The call proceeded, without incident until Illinois was reached, when the chairman announced that on a poll of that delegation there were 36 votes for and 12 against Cleveland. Under the unit rule he cast the 48 votes for Cleveland. The New York delegates applauded the Louisiana vote, which gave Cleveland only three. The announcement of the Maryland vote was awaited with interest. When it was announced as 9½ for Gorman there were enquiries for the missing half vote. The chairman explained that Morgan had the half vote, and he was absent. When Collins announced the vote of Massachusetts he said he desired to say the one vote given for Russell was against the protest of the delegates. Cochrane jumped into the aisle and demanded the regular order. Collins as he took his seat said he would not take instructions from New York, even on that question. An excited delegate jumped up and said that the delegate who voted for Governor Russell would not take instructions from Collins. He was silenced by the chairman's gavel. Then the roll call proceeded quietly until New York was reached, when her solid 78 votes for Hill were greeted with applause. The Ohio vote was awaited with interest, and when it gave 16 votes for Boies the Iowa men set up a mighty yell.

As the roll call proceeded the excitement became intense. It culminated when Alaska set her two votes for Cleveland. There was growing excitement. Both the Hill and Cleveland leaders were around the Arizona delegates, waiting the announcement of their vote. It has been supposed that Arizona and New Mexico, which has been given additional representation in the convention, would vote the anti-Cleveland people. When the chairman of the Arizona delegation got the floor and announced five votes for Cleveland there was wild and renewed cheering, and so much confusion, both in the galleries and on the floor that it was impossible to transact business. Sheehan of New York, came up the aisle and demanded that order be restored before the roll call proceeded. Order was restored and Alaska was called again. Then the District of Columbia was called and cast her two votes for Cleveland. That gave him all but two-thirds of the votes, or the 607 necessary to nominate. New Mexico settled the question next minute when she announced four votes for Cleveland.

The delegates fillen the aisles and stood on chairs. Michigan got out her banner for a demonstration, but there was more conversation than cheering, and the banner was put away, while the secretary with cast iron voice continued the call of the roll. Every other vote was for Cleveland, and when the roll call was completed he had 626⅔. A Maryland delegate got on his chair and tried to move that the nomination be unanimous, but the chairman declared him out of order, as the result of the vote had not been announced. A number of delegates tried to obtain recognition, but the confusion was such that they could not be heard. A South Carolina delegate went to the clerk's desk and had the vote of that state changed from Boies to Cleveland. The Texas delegation changed its vote to 30 for Cleveland, the West Virginia delegation to 12 for Cleveland, the Maryland delegation to 16 for Cleveland, the Kentucky delegation to 12 for Cleveland.

Mr. Neal, of Ohio, moved to suspend the rules and make the nomination by acclamation, but was ruled out of order. Daniels, of Ohio, took the platform and spoke.

Daniel's remarks excited great enthusiasm, but the chair was unable to get order, for the crowd of New York people were crying out to Governor Flower, Lieutenant-Governor Sheehan and others of the New York delegation to second the nomination, but the New York delegation sat silent. Then the vote was put and from parts of the hall came some emphatic negatives. The convention hissed at this, and the hissing continued. Governor Flower got on his chair and his lips moved, but his words could not be heard beyond the limits of the circle just about him. He was trying to move to make the nomination unanimous. Thise who heard him cheered. Bourke Cochrane got to his feet. He had a weary air as he held his hand behind his head and addressed the chair:—"As there were some expressions of dissent uttered in this neighborhood when the motion was made to declare the nomination unanimous, I deem it my duty to state that on the motion to make the nomination unanimous the vote of the State of New York, in full submission to this convention, was cast in the affirmative." This announcement was greeted with cheers from all parts of the hall, and there were cries of "Question." The chairman put the question again, and this time it was carried without dissent.

Then Don Dickinson, of Michigan, got the floor, and on his motion at 3:45 the convention adjourned till 2 o'clock this afternoon.

THE VOTE.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Following is the ballot by which Cleveland was nominated: Cleveland, 613½; Hill, 114; Boies, 103; Gorman, 36½; Carlisle, 14; Stevenson, 16⅔; Morrison, 3; Campbell, 2; Whitney, 1; Russell, 1; Pattison, 1; total, 907½.

VIEWS OF THE PRESS.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Sun this morning says: "We tender the assurance of our admiration to William Collins Whitney, the cleverest politician of the day. The Democratic party of this state have made a grand and determined fight against the third nomination of Grover Cleveland. They have presented the facts and arguments which had convinced them that if his candidacy should be adopted by the convention the consequence must be disastrous, and for the present fatal, to the Democratic cause; but no sane man has ever doubted that the chiefs of this great and victorious party, victorious we mean, in the State of New York, having taken their places as delegates in the convention and submitted their views to its consideration, would loyally abide by its decision and do their utmost to elect whatsoever candidate it might finally determine to nominate. All honor to the unflinching and noble delegation of New York Democrats at Chicago. All honor to that unqualified Democrat, that faithful and fearless politician, that successful champion, D. B. Hill, the only statesman of the Democracy possessing the courage and spirit to offer himself as a leader against the claim to a third nomination set up for a once defeated aspirant."

The Times (Indiana) says: "It cannot be denied that Cleveland's nomination must be attributed to the sincere and powerful sentiment of the masses of his party, and not at all to the efforts of political managers. The fact is that the managers, where they dared, worked against his nomination. Up to the moment when delegates from all parts of the union began to arrive at Chicago there was not the faintest semblance of a Cleveland machine; that is to say there was nothing like a preconceived national movement by skilful and interested men to create or manifest a sentiment in favor of his nomination. The nomination was made, and made in a manner that established beyond all doubt a degree of confidence in Mr. Cleveland, an eager and resolute desire for his leadership, and is absolutely without precedent in party history in this generation."

The Tribune says: "The Democracy is bringing forward a candidate who was beaten four years ago upon his own record and upon an issue deliberately chosen by him. Thoughtful men will at once consider in what respect, if any, he is stronger than he was when he was beaten. The record of his administration has not been changed. Mr. Cleveland has written a letter on the silver question that renders him weaker in the Western States than he was then, while it does not strengthen him in the East against President Harrison, whose views on the same subject are as sound as his own."

The Herald says: "It is the first time that a candidate beaten at the polls has been renominated, and that too against the very antagonist who defeated him. This hazardous experiment the Republicans declined to enter upon at Minneapolis when Mr. Blaine was brought forward with so much enthusiasm. It was the first time that the nomination was given to a candidate who entered a convention without a single delegate from his own state in favor of him, but on the other hand with its solid delegation of 72 pledged against him, and that state the one in the union whose electoral vote is essential. With Cleveland on one side and Harrison on the other we shall have an interesting and unique campaign. Both have been President, and the administration of each has been disapproved by the country, Mr. Cleveland's when the people refused to re-elect him four years ago and Mr. Harrison's when Republican extravagance, pension abuses, McKinley prices and other evils of Republican mis-rule were condemned at the polls in 1890 by a popular protest that made the House Democratic and sounded the knell of the Republican majority in the Senate."

NEW YORK FEELING.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The probable action of the Chicago convention has been discounted to such an extent by the news from that city for several days that little excitement was manifested over the proceedings of the day and night. The Hoffman House corridors in the evening presented the only lively scenes witnessed in the hotels. The news arrived there over a ticker service, and volunteers read off the bulletins from the tape. When the tape announced that the tariff plank would be moulded upon Mr. Cleveland's message of 1887, the enthusiasm of the evening occurred. A man in the crowd called out "Three cheers for Cleveland." Those present joined in the cheering that followed. Port Warden Jones, a great Hill man and personal friend of the senator, came home last night from Chicago. "Had all I wanted there," he said. "Seventy-five per cent. of the delegates and 75 per cent. of the visitors were for Cleveland, and I got tired of it. Palmer caved in, Gorman caved in and Dan Voorhees caved in, and I thought I would cave out. We shall be able to elect Cleveland, I am sure. The New York people will support him heartily now that his nomination has been won." Warner Miller got into the city last night also. He said: "I anticipated Mr. Cleveland's nomination. I think the Republican ticket will carry this state and the country at large, and that Mr. Harrison will be his own successor."

STEVENSON FOR SECOND PLACE.

CHICAGO, June 23.—When the convention came to order this afternoon, John E. Lamb, of Indiana, took the platform to present the name of Gray. Ex-Congressman Worthington, of Illinois presented the name of General Stevenson, of Illinois. There appeared to be a difference of opinion among the Boies people as to whether they would accept second place on the ticket, but they finally decided not to present Boies' name. Edwin T. Hughes, of Michigan, nominated Allen B. Morse of Michigan.

As Ohio was called there were cries of "Campbell," but Ohio said she had no candidate. Gen. Bragg, of Wisconsin, presented the name of Jno. C. Mitchell on behalf of Wisconsin.

The ballot gave Stevenson 402 votes against about 500 for all the other candidates.

Iowa then changed her vote at the request of Watterson to Stevenson, 26 votes. This made Stevenson 428. Montana gives Stevenson six. Nevada changes six to Stevenson. This break evidently will nominate Stevenson. New Mexico, Gray 5, Stevenson 1. Oklahoma, Stevenson 2. Utah, Morse 1, Gray 5. Indian Territory, Gray 2. Minnesota changes her vote to Stevenson.

It's all over with the ticket. Nebraska changes from Mitchell to Stevenson.

4:36 p.m.—It is moved that the rules be suspended and Stevenson nominated by acclamation. Carried.

Ottawa News.

OTTAWA, June 23.—Senator Boulton gives notice of a motion to refer the distribution bill to the Supreme Court to decide on the question of its constitutionality.

During consideration of the Gerrymander bill, Mr. Corbould moved that Westminster be divided into two constituencies, with one member each, as originally proposed, that the North riding be called Burrard, the South riding New Westminster, the dividing line to commence at the Gulf, on parallel 49 degrees 15 minutes, north latitude, to proceed east to its intersection with 122 degrees 45 min. W. longitude; thence north. The suggestion was adopted by the government. The remainder of the Quebec clauses and those relating to Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were disposed of. Then there was a prolonged fight over Prince Edward Island.

In the senate yesterday on Dr. McInnes' amendment to the Burrard Inlet Bridge and Tunnel bill, which requires a draw of 150 feet in the second Narrows bridge or a headway of a hundred and fifty feet, there was an exciting debate. Senator Macdonald's motion was adopted sending the bill back to reinsert the Commons clause leaving the matter entirely in the hands of the Governor-in-council.

Liberals and Nationalists Confer.

LONDON, June 23.—A state conference took place yesterday between Mr. Gladstone and the McCarthyite leaders, which almost solely concerned the proposals of Gladstone to extend a guarantee to the minorities under the proposed new home rule bill. At the opening of the conference Mr. Gladstone asked what prospects there were for a reunion of the Irish Parliamentary party, and was told that the prospects were remote. He expressed no great concern as to the result should that end not be attained, but was hopeful of such a solid majority at the approaching elections that he believed the return of a few of the so-called Independents would not affect the issues. The statement made that Timothy Healy was present is erroneous. Justin McCarthy subsequently convened a private meeting of his colleagues to discuss Gladstone's proposition, and it is likely that his proposals will be approved all round. With regard to the reunion and the commission coming from the United States, Dillon says he fears they will be too late for their work to be effective, as they will arrive on the eve of polling and all the final preparations for the contest will have been completed. The anti-Parnellites, he declares, will be ready, however, to the last moment to attempt and effect a reconciliation or favorably consider any such attempts should they be made by the Parnellites.

BANGO, Me., June 23.—Nellie Newcomb, a girl of sixteen, belonging to a good family, deliberately walked into the river to-day at Hampdon and was drowned. She left a note pinned to her dress on the bank, bidding father good bye. The son of a prominent merchant refused to marry her which is said to be the reason for taking her life.

NEW WESTMINSTER.

NEW WESTMINSTER, June 23.—John Cameron, who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment for robbing the house of farmer Bose Claxton, made a desperate attempt to escape from the chain gang while working on the Government reserve on Wednesday afternoon. After a long chase, he was captured by the guards.

A Chinese merchant here says that there are at least 10 cases of smallpox in Vancouver, recently imported by the Empress of Japan. They are all Chinese, but refuse to be treated by white physicians. Their friends have secreted them away in different parts of Vancouver. Vancouver and New Westminster cities have themselves to blame, alleges the celestial merchant, if smallpox spreads widely. The Chinese in both cities have asked for suitable quarters upon which to erect pest houses, and have got money to erect buildings, but their petitions have been ignored by both city councils.

Inspector of fisheries, McNab, yesterday received written information from Ottawa that cannerymen will not be permitted to dump offal into the river. The cannerymen are greatly dissatisfied over the regulation, and allege that it will materally effect their business.

NANAIMO.

NANAIMO, June 23.—The Green block was handsomely decorated yesterday and the bazaar opened at 12 o'clock. The scene inside the building was indeed a picturesque one. The stalls containing the articles for sale were artistically arranged. Refreshments could be had and were freely patronized. Although there was a counter attraction at the opera house in the evening it did not prevent a good attendance at the bazaar. The affair was continued to-day and with the same success.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh were assailed by a surprise party on Tuesday evening, composed of the members of the Y.P.S.C.E. of the Presbyterian church. The young and newly married couple were then presented with a very handsome dinner service, being the gift of the Y.P.S.C.E. Mr. McIntosh returned thanks for their generosity.

The girls were dismissed from school for their summer holidays yesterday and in honor of the event the deft fingers of the elder girls had beautifully decorated the rooms with garlands and flowers. There was a good attendance of visitors, who were well rewarded for their visit by the interesting programme they listened to. The big table in the room was heaped up with prizes and there was hardly a child forgotten. Miss Ethel Wolfe, on behalf of her colleagues, presented Miss Lawson, the principal, with a handsome gold watch as a token of esteem, which was suitably acknowledged. Miss Eliza Quennell and Miss Isabel Bennie passed into the High School.

The Rev. G. H. Tovay took the children of St. Alban's Sunday School on a picnic in boats to Newcastle Island. The little ones enjoyed the outing immensely and only appeared to be sorry when the day came to a close. The steam launch towed the party back at night.

Nine Sailors Drowned.

NEW ORLEANS, June 23.—A special from Belize, Honduras, says that the schooner Ringdove, the property of Messrs. B. Cramer & Co., of that port, had sunk off Half Moon Cave, and that nine out of thirteen persons had been drowned. The schooner left Belize last Thursday morning bound for Truxillo. At 11:30 the same night 14 miles to the southwest of the cave; out in the ocean, she was struck by a whirlwind which sunk the vessel in a few moments following. The dorey was fortunately loose on deck, and in this the sole survivers managed to make their way to Half Moon Cave, where the pilot and light keepers did all they possibly could for them. The schooner Conquest was sent out on Saturday in the forlorn hope of finding the schooner drifting, but returned having found no trace of her or any of the bodies.

Impaled on a Picket.

QUEBEC, June 23.—A shocking accident occurred yesterday at Ste. Augustine, in the adjoining county of Portneuf. A man named Cantin was engaged in repairing the roof of a barn, damaged by the recent tornado, when he slipped and falling to the ground was impaled on a sharp picket standing below, which passed through his body. He died shortly afterwards. A young man named McInley, belonging to Valcarier, in Quebec county, was drowned while driving logs on a river in New Hampshire on Monday last.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

A Batch of Important Communications Disposed of—The Old Women's Home.

The Sewerage Question is Becoming the Absorbing Topic of the Council.

The Board of Aldermen met last evening in the usual regular weekly meeting. Present, Mayor Beaven, in the chair, Ald. Hall, McKillican, Styles, Hunter, Lovell, Bragg, Munn, Baker.

The minutes of the last meeting were taken as read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From A. DeCosmos, requesting that the assessor be instructed to assess his property as so many acres or fractions of acres and not by feet at Spring Ridge. Also giving details of former assessments. He had appealed before against assessments wrongfully made in former years and asking that the board see the matter properly done this year.

Ald. Lovell moved to refer to the assessor.

His Worship said the council had nothing to do with it, and could not refer to the assessor. It would be highly improper to instruct the assessor in the matter.

Ald. Lovell moved, seconded by Ald. Hall, that the communication be laid on the table.

Ald. McKillican said the writer should receive a direct answer, and that he should be informed that he is assessed according to law.

Ald. Hall said Mr. DeCosmos would be informed like all the other ratepayers in the regular course. He did not know whether Mr. DeCosmos wrote those communications to this board to annoy the aldermen. He should be treated just the same as anybody else who wrote the board.

Ald. Lovell's motion carried.

From 25 owners of property on Mary and Catherine streets, Esquimalt road, asking that the lines lately laid down be allowed to remain as they are. If moved it will simply mean ruin to the owners of property, buildings, etc., in the neighborhood, some of whom have lived there 28 years.

Ald. McKillican said the matter was now in the hands of the city surveyor, and is now being considered with a view to the permanent establishment of the lines. He moved the petitioners be so informed.

Ald. Styles said the people of Victoria West had a great grievance in this matter and something should be done at respecting this survey.

Ald. McKillican's motion carried.

THE OLD WOMEN'S HOME.

From M. L. Hall, on behalf of the W.C.T.U., calling attention to the case of two elderly women who have neither home nor friends; asking that the expense incurred by the W.C.T.U. in supporting them be borne by the City Council, in view of the old women's home project not having been carried out.

Ald. Baker moved in amendment to Ald. Munn's motion to refer to the finance committee, to refer to the Old Men's Home as something kindred.

Ald. Hall could not see why there was not an old women's home. Something should be done in this matter. Mr. Rithet's kind offer should be accepted; it would save the council money.

His Worship said it looked anomalous that this city should provide luxuries for old men and withhold any support at all from the extra helpless ones, the old women, who were still more unable to win a living.

Ald. Munn contended that the Old Men's Home was not the place to refer the matter to. There had been an understanding that if accommodation could be found at the Old Men's Home, old women could be admitted. There was no distinction of sex in regard to the home. The by-law merely said: "for aged and infirm persons." There was no accommodation there at present.

Referred to the Old Men's Home committee.

A VEXED QUESTION.

From John Teague, architect, on behalf of Mr. Redon of the New Driard, asking that the hotel be connected with the sewerage system without delay. The contractor will, by order of the council, terminate his contract unless something is done at once.

Ald. McKillican said that it looked rather a mean thing after Mr. Redon had laid out $100,000 to refuse him sewerage. The least the council could do was to allow him to put it in if they could not do it themselves. The building was suffering for the want of sewerage connections.

Ald. Hall said that until Mr. McBean was finished with his contract the council will deal with him only.

The letter from contractor McBean was read, asking instructions re the new Driard connections.

Ald. Lovell said he had never been struck with admiration at the manner contractor McBean had carried out his contract. It was to be finished July 1, but the snow would fly before that system was done. McBean would not use white labor on the sewerage. He employed Italians imported from San Francisco, when hundreds of white men were idle in the city. The best thing he could do was to go ahead and finish his contract; the ratepayers would be better satisfied.

Ald. Baker said contractor McBean had considerable nerve in coming to this board making the requests he had. He had shown himself to be no contractor but a friend to a class of men who are no good to this community. He left the streets in a shameful condition and did not do good work at all.

Ald. Hunter thought it absurd for the council to discuss irrelevant matters for an hour instead of simply granting Mr. Redon's request for permission to do the work himself. He should get it without any more humbug. The new Driard had cost nearly $200,000 and was ready for occupation; there was no sense in withholding the privilege of putting in sewers.

His Worship explained that the contractor did not want anyone connecting with the main sewer until his contract was finished.

Ald. Hunter thought Messrs. Redon and McBean should settle that matter between themselves; Mr. Redon, however, should have permission to do the work. Then they could come to some understanding. It was absurd to keep the applicant waiting all these weeks for permission. He should get it and the council would be done with it.

Ald. Styles thought the matter deserves serious consideration before permission was granted. He could not see why Mr. Redon had not got sewerage before this, and perhaps it would be a very good thing for the city if Mr. McBean threw up his contract. Not a single resident of this city was employed on the work.

His Worship summed up, and showed the necessity of connecting the large buildings in the centre of the city with the sewerage system.

Ald. Bragg spoke upon the serious complications arising all the time. He did not know which way to vote in the matter.

Ald. Baker thought it a very dangerous proposition for the council to grant permission to connect with the main sewer. But Mr. Redon should certainly have relief.

Ald. Bragg did not like the idea of leaving the settlement of the question open between Messrs. Redon and McBean. The council should take a firm stand in this matter.

Ald. Hunter said it was a usual thing for contractors to refuse to have their contracts meddled with. He would do the same himself.

The resolution to grant permission resulted in a tie. His Worship said he could not give his vote for the resolution.

From A. F. Jones, Captain, B.C.B.G.A., accepting council's offer to rent stalls in the market building for the militia. Received and filed.

From several residents of Spring Ridge, calling attention to the gravel pits dispute at Spring Ridge and asking early settlement.

Ald. Bragg said it was high time this matter were looked after. Referred to the finance committee.

From the inhabitants of St. Charles street, Cadbero Bay road, complaining of scanty water supply and asking that something be done. Dealt with in the water committee's report.

From residents of Tolmie avenue, asking extension of water supply in that direction. Referred to the water committee and water commissioner to report.

REPORTS.

The Old People's Home committee reported, recommending that various tenders for supplies be accepted. Adopted and the contracts awarded.

The Waterworks committee reported, recommending that a two-inch pipe be laid on St. Charles street, a distance of 2000 feet, to cost $620; a four-inch pipe on Belcher street, 230 feet, to cost $184; a two-inch pipe on Oakland avenue, distance 1146 feet, to cost $360.84; a four-inch pipe on Blanchard street, 1375 feet, to cost $1325, and that the one-inch pipe on Discovery street, between Blanchard and Douglas street, be replaced by a two-inch pipe, to cost $225—total estimated cost, $2,714.84. Adopted.

The streets committee reported in regard to a tunnel on Constance street applied for by the Tramway company, and the extension of a basement into the street.

Ald. Hall said the aldermen appeared to be afraid of the Tramway company, and it was afraid of the aldermen. The Tramway company should be watched.

Report received and the recommendations directed to be carried out.

The finance committee reported recommending payment of accounts amounting to $735.71. Adopted.

The finance committee further reported payment of accounts amounting to $823.55. Adopted.

The sewerage committee reported regarding the Terra Cotta company as to delivery of pipes, recommending that their attention be drawn to a resolution of the council at a former meeting. Referred to the sewerage commissioners.

The finance committee again reported stating that the city auditor should give his whole time to the work and recommending that that official's salary be advanced $42.66 per month. Adopted.

RELIEVING THE STRAIN.

The committee to whom was referred the letter of City Clerk W. J. Dowler, asking that more help be granted in the office, reported, recommending that a police court clerk be appointed, and also someone to undertake the secretaryship of the cemetery trust.

Ald. Hunter wanted to know how provision could be made for these extra salaries. A long discussion ensued, each alderman taking a different view of the matter.

Ald. Bragg said if the recommendations were carried out the aldermen would find it very hard work getting through the streets next day, as the ratepayers would meet them at every hand with the statement "you are raising the official salaries while the workingmen are walking around." Report adopted, the recommendations to be carried out.

PERMISSION GRANTED.

The sewerage question was once more taken up, the Driard drainage being the subject of debate. A resolution was offered and carried that Mr. Redon be granted permission to open up such streets as were necessary to connect with the sewerage system, under the supervision of the city engineer.

Moved by Ald. McKillican and Styles, that this council desires to express its sympathy with Ald. Humber in the death of his son and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to him.

NEW BY-LAWS.

Ald. McKillican asked leave to introduce a by-law to amend the estimate by-law of 1892. Granted.

Ald. McKillican asked leave to introduce a by-law to amend the market by-law. Granted.

Ald. Hunter asked leave to introduce a by-law to levy a rate or rates upon all the lands, real property and improvements upon the assessment roll of 1892. Granted.

Council then adjourned.

Bismarck at Vienna.

VIENNA, June 22.—Prince Bismarck has been so pleased by his reception here that he has decided to remain in the city until Friday. He will then start for Kissingen to take the waters. At the wedding dinner in the Palffy Palace last night, the Prince was the most distinguished of all the statesmen and noblemen present. He chatted for some time with Count Andrassy, who was heard subsequently to remark that Bismarck had lost none of his wonderful ability for rehearsing the minutest details of diplomatic history. Although he walks heavily and without energy, his form is fairly erect and his eye is clear.

Almost a Miracle

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

"Gentlemen: When I was 14 years of age I was confined to my bed for several months by an attack of rheumatism, and when I had partially recovered I did not have the use of my legs, so that I had to go on crutches. About a year later, Scrofula, in the form of

appeared on various parts of my body, and for eleven years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed six years. In that time ten or eleven of these sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. Several times pieces of bone worked out of the sores. Physicians did not help me and

I Became Discouraged

"I went to Chicago to visit a sister, as it was thought a change of air and scene might do me good. But I was confined to my bed most of the time. I was so impressed with the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in cases similar to mine that I decided to try it. So a bottle was bought, and to my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better. This strengthened my faith in the medicine, and in a short time I was

Up and Out of Doors

To make a long story short, I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a year, when I had become so fully released from the chains of disease that I took a position with the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since that time have not lost a single day on account of sickness. I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I endorse for it has been a great blessing to me, and to my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous. I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of all medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, No. 9 North Railroad st., Kendallville, Ind.

Ex-President Cleveland Carries the Democratic Convention Without Trouble.

Comparatively Light Votes for Governors Hill and Boies---A Noisy Session.

The Platform as Adopted---Strong Anti-Protection Plank-- Silver Men Defeated.

CHICAGO, June 23.—The Democratic platform as adopted by the convention yesterday contains the following planks:—

Section 1.—The representatives of the Democratic party of the United States, in national convention assembled, affirm allegiance to the principles of the party as formulated by Jefferson and exemplified by the long and illustrious line of his successors in Democratic leadership, from Madison to Cleveland. We believe the public welfare demands that these principles be applied to the conduct of the federal Government through the accession to power of the party that votes them, and we solemnly declare that the need of a return to these fundamental principles of free popular government was never more urgent than now, when the tendency to centralize all power at the federal capital has become a menace to the reserved rights of the states, that strikes at the very roots of our government under the Constitution, as framed by the fathers of the Republic.

In section 2 the policy of the federal control of elections is condemned. The Democratic party is pledged, if it be intrusted with power, not only to the defeat of the Force Bill, but also to relentless opposition to the Republican party's policy of profligate expenditure.

In Section 3 a revision of the tariff laws is demanded such as will remove their iniquitous inequalities, lighten their oppressions and put them on a constitutional and equitable basis. But, in making reductions in taxes, it is not proposed to injure any domestic industries, but rather to promote their healthy growth. The McKinley tariff law is denounced as the culminating atrocity of class legislation and the efforts made by the Democrats of the present Congress to modify the most oppressive features of the law are endorsed.

In Section 4 it is stated that trade interchange on the basis of reciprocal advantage to the countries participating is a time-honored doctrine of the Democratic faith, but the sham reciprocity which erects the custom house barrier of a prohibitive tariff against the richest countries of the world is denounced.

In Section 5 a rigid enforcement of the laws made to prevent and control trusts and monopolists is demanded.

Regarding the public lands, section 6 pledges the party to a continuance of its old policy of reclaiming all lands unlawfully held by corporations, and of restoring them to the people.

Section 7—"We denounce the Republican legislation known as the Sherman Act of 1890 as a cowardly makeshift, fraught with possibilities of danger in the future, which should make all of its supporters, as well as its author, anxious for its speedy repeal. We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage; but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of intrinsic and exchangeable value or be adjusted by international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the purity of the two metals, and the equal power of any dollar at all times in the mint, and in the payment of debts; and we demand that all paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of the farmers and laboring classes, the first and more defenceless victims of unstable money and a fluctuating currency."

Section 8 recommends that the prohibitive 10 per cent. tax on state bank issues be repealed.

Section 9 reaffirms the declaration of the Democratic national convention of 1876, for the reform of the civil service.

Section 10 favors a consistent and vigorous foreign policy, and the maintenance of a navy strong enough for all purposes of national defence.

Section 11 tenders profound and earnest sympathy for those struggling for Home Rule in Ireland.

Section 12 demands the rigid enforcement of the laws against Chinese immigration and the importation of workmen under contract; but all attempts to restrict the industrious and worthy of foreign lands is condemned.

In section 13 just and liberal pensions are favored for all disabled Union soldiers, their widows and dependents, and a demand is made that the work of the Pension Office shall be done industriously, impartially and honestly.

In section 14 a demand is made that the Federal Government shall care for and improve the Mississippi River and other great water ways of the Republic.

In section 15 the early construction of the Nicaragua Canal is recognized as important.

In section 16 it is recommended that Congress give financial aid to the World's Fair.

In section 17 liberal appropriations for popular education are recommended to the States.

In section 18, "we approve the action of the present House of Representatives in passing bills for the admission into the Union as States of the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona, and we favor the early admission of all the territories having the necessary population and resources to entitle them to statehood, and while they remain territories we hold that the officers appointed to maintain the government of any territory, together with the District of Columbia and Alaska, shall be bona fide residents of the territory and district in which their duties are to be performed. The Democratic party believe in Home Rule and the control of their own affairs by the people of the vicinage.

Section 19.—"We favor legislation by Congress and State Legislatures to protect the lives and limbs of railway employes, and those of other hazardous transportation companies, and denounce the inactivity of the Republican party, and particularly the Republican Senate, for causing the defeat of measures beneficial and protective to this class of wage workers."

Section 20.—"We are in favor of the enactment by the States of laws for abolishing contract convict labor, and for prohibiting the employment in factories of children under 15 years of age."

Section 21.—"We are opposed to all sumptuary laws as an interference with the individual rights of the citizen."

Section 22.—Upon this statement of principles and policy the Democratic party asks the intelligent judgment of the American people. It asks a change of administration and a change of party in order that there may be a change of system and a change of methods, thus securing the maintenance unimpaired of the institutions under which the Republic has grown great and powerful.

Mr. Jones, at the close of the reading of the platform, said: "On behalf of the committee on resolutions, I move the adoption of the platform as read." This was met by cries of "No."

Mr. Neal, of Ohio, took the stand and said: "As a representative from the state of Ohio, appointed on the committee on resolutions, I give notice of my intention to present to this convention an amendment to the section of the platform relative to the tariff. I have been unable conscientiously to agree with the majority of my fellow members upon that section of this platform. I therefore gave notice to the committee that I would move in open convention to strike out all that section of the platform denouncing the McKinley Act, and to substitute the following: "We denounce Republican protection as a fraud (cheers)—a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. (Loud cheers.) We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the Federal Government has no constitutional power to enforce and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only (renewed and long continued cheering), and demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government honestly and economically administered."

Henry Watterson came to the platform amid cheering and asked that the tariff plank of the Democratic party in 1876 be read. The clerk having read it, Mr. Watterson said: "The plank you have heard read comes from that saint of Democracy—Samuel J. Tilden." (Applause.) He went on to attack the majority tariff resolution in a telling speech.

Mr. Vilas began by endorsing the amendment offered by Mr. Neal, of Ohio, making one or two diplomatic points on Mr. Watterson, the scene being a picturesque one, Mr. Watterson standing within two feet of him, with his left arm on the speaker's desk. After Mr. Vilas had concluded Mr. Watterson was recognized, and cheered by the New York delegates.

Mr. Jones, of Missouri, announced that the majority accepts the amendment of the gentleman from Ohio, which caused great cheering from the Hill people.

Mr. Watterson—"The majority proposed to incorprate the amendment. The question is now on the tariff plank of the majority platform committee, which is practically the one on which Cleveland was elected."

Mr. Vilas and Mr. Jones accept Mr. Neil's amendment, but the people on the floor want a vote. The Hill people will evidently claim that the adoption of Neil's amendment is a victory. The vote appears to indicate that it seems assured that the Cleveland people will vote in favor of the amendment, which, after some confusion, is carried easily; the chair deciding in favor of the unit rule where state delegations have been so instructed. The official figures make the vote, ayes, 564, nays, 342, which is looked on as a victory for the Hill men, although it was in no sense a test vote. Three cheers for Hill are given, the New Yorkers being well pleased.

Patterson, of Colorado, having spoken in opposition to the silver plank of the platform committee his amendment is voted down and the platform adopted.

NOMINATIONS.

The chair announces that the next order is the call of the roll of states for the presentation of candidates for President. Arkansas yields her place to New Jersey, and Governor Abbott takes the platform. He said: "In presenting the name I shall give to the convention I represent the unanimous voice of New Jersey, and shall name a man born on its soil, and whose electoral vote has twice been cast for him." He says New Jersey would not present the name of any man who could not be elected.

As he mentions Cleveland's name pandemonium begins; the Michigan men start the Cleveland banner around the hall again, and it is like a red flag to the New Yorkers; the band is playing "Ta-ra-ra Boom-de-ay."

Governor Abbott says that Cleveland would receive the support of every Democrat. (Cries of no, no.) He replied: He would receive the support of every Democrat in the land. He says the favorite sons have all withdrawn from this convention, because they believed the great masses of the country desired Grover Cleveland. (Loud cheering.) The people want Grover Cleveland because they believe that tariff reform is embodied in him. As Governor Abbott refers to Hill, the New York crowd jump to their chairs and yell, being joined by about 50 or 75 others, Dr. Mary Walker doing the parasol act.

The delegates again resumed the performance of raising the picture of Hill, the New Yorkers still cheering, and Dr. Mary Walker keeping up her flirtation. She was dressed in her characteristic costume and waved her handkerchief frantically, amid wild excitement, the New York delegation yelling for all it was worth, General Daniel Sickles, not to be outdone, waving his crutches. The Hill cheering lasted fully 20 minutes, after which Governor Abbott resumed, making a good speech, although the Hill incident is regarded by some as unfortunate. He concluded by saying: "A Democratic victory is assured if the plain, blunt, honest citizen Grover Cleveland is nominated."

California seconds the nomination of Mr. Cleveland.

Colorado yielding to New York, Wm. C. Dewitt, of Brooklyn, takes the floor, Mr. Bourk Cochran asking that Mr. Dewitt be allowed to wait until the storm is over, as the rain is beating through the ceiling. A motion to adjourn for half an hour is lost.

Mr. Dewitt began by saying that the Democracy cannot elect the next President without the State of New York. He continued: "We never failed you when you have given us a Democrat to vote for (hisses) quoting Governor Hill's famous words, 'I am a Democrat.'" He forcibly dwelt upon the importance of the New York vote, and described Mr. Hill, whom he nominated, as the Blucher that would drive Harrison to St. Helena.

John R. Fellows seconded the nomination of Mr. Hill. Mr. Fellows said the whole people wanted Mr. Hill. He made a very forcible and eloquent address, dwelling on the importance of the New York Democracy. Governor Hill was a man without a stain on either his personal or political career. Mr. Fellows was interrupted by three cheers for Cleveland.

Hon. A. W. Green, of Illinois, seconded the nomination of Grover Cleveland, speaking amid cries of "Time!"

Wm. E. English, of Indiana, in supporting the nomination of Cleveland, read a letter from Senator Voorhees endorsing Mr. Cleveland, and saying that he would second the nomination of Cleveland if he were not confined to his room by illness.

Iowa being called, as Boies' name was mentioned, the convention broke into cheers, New York joining with them.

The Hill men cheer during a renewal of the storm, a streamer of four pictures of D. B. Hill being exhibited.

Mr. Duncombe rises and nominates Boies. Cries of "Time!" The people get tired and ill-tempered.

Mr. Fenton, of Kansas, endorses the nomination of Cleveland.

Mr. McKenzie, of Kentucky, says the Republicans have taxed about everything that enters the American household except air, sunshine and water, and the only reason they have not taxed those is because nobody in England is engaged in their manufacture. He concludes, "I second the nomination of Horace Boies, of Iowa."

Henry Watterson approves the nomination of Boies, being followed in the same line by Kirdon, of Louisiana.

The Iowans apparently go crazy with delight.

General Collins made a great speech, arousing the most genuine enthusiasm for Cleveland. He was loudly cheered by the mass of delegates. Minnesota favored Cleveland. Mr. Wallace, of Montana, spoke in favor of Boies. New York asked to be passed. South Dakota going for Boies. Mr. Ox, of Tennessee, amid interruptions, said he favored Cleveland. Daniels, of Virginia, declared for Hill instead of Cleveland. Texas was declared to be for Cleveland.

A motion to adjourn till 11 to-morrow being made the chairman decided it was not in order during the call of States.

Virginia and Washington were declared to be for Cleveland, while Hill's nomination had the support of West Virginia.

CLEVELAND THE MAN.

After further debating, Grover Cleveland was nominated at 3:29 a.m.

The following is an unofficial report of the vote: Cleveland, 616½; Russell, 162; Gorman, 3½; Carlisle, 14; Whitney, 1; Hill, 114; Boies, 104; Morrison, 3; Campbell, 2; Patterson, 1.

On motion of Dickinson, of Michigan, the convention adjourned until 2 p. m. to-day.

WANTED TO SEE THE PLATFORM.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Among the reasons assigned for the delay in presenting the platform is that Mr. Cleveland sent word by wire to Mr. Whitney that his name must not be presented to the convention until he had seen a synopsis of the platform upon which his candidature was to rest. Mr. Whitney, when asked if this was true, said that in a measure it was. Mr. Cleveland had asked him to keep him informed upon the matter.

CLEVELAND THE CHOICE.

The enemies of Grover Cleveland among the Democrats have suffered a much worse snub than the opponents of President Harrison in the Republican party. It must be borne in mind that in a Democratic convention a candidate has to secure the votes of two-thirds of the delegates in order to a namination, whereas in Republican conventions the simple majority is sufficient. Thus it comes that there may be more difficulty in effecting a nomination in a Democratic than in a Republican national convention, and that Cleveland's success is more notable than Harrison's.

On the other hand, Cleveland no doubt profited by what is known as the unit rule, under which in Democratic conventions the vote of all the delegates from each state may be cast in such direction as the majority decides. For example, the total vote of Illinois was polled for Cleveland last night, whereas he was the individual choice of only 36 out of the 48 delegates from the state. It is is easy to see how this unit rule works in favor of the candidate who has the greatest strength at the commencement, since it has a strongly cumulative tendency. In the Republican conventions the delegates vote as individuals, and the vote of any state may be split up between two or more candidates. This unit rule, adopted by the Democrats many years ago, was intended to prevent a Northern majority from nominating a candidate whom the South would consider as hostile to its peculiar interests. It has proved fatal to more than one aspirant, but on the whole has worked well. In 1844, Martin Van Buren was the choice of a majority of the members of the Democratic convention at Baltimore, but he had written a letter which alienated those persons who were in favor of the annexation of Texas. It became apparent that he could not obtain a two-thirds vote, and a dark horse —Polk of Tennessee — obtained the nomination.

Each convention makes its own laws. In 1880 an attempt was made by Mr. Conklin in the interest of General Grant to introduce the unit rule into the Republican convention. It had the support of state action in several states; but it failed, the convention voting that state conventions could not bind their delegates to vote as a unit. On the other hand, at the Democratic convention held at Chicago in 1884, the unit rule was insisted upon in spite of the opposition of Tammany. On a preliminary motion, the chairman of the New York delegation, Danniel Manning, announced the vote of New York as "72 noes," whereupon a Tammany delegate rose to correct him, stating that the vote was "49 noes, 14 ayes and 4 absent," but the convention held that New York's vote must be recorded as a unit. The effect was to nullify Tammany's opposition to Cleveland. Similarly at the present Chicago convention, an attempt was made by the Hill men to do away with the unit rule, the success of which would in all likelihood have enabled them to detach enough individual votes from Cleveland to at least delay his nomination seriously. Their great difficulty, however, was their want of strength at the outset.

As to the Chicago platform, two points stand out with special prominence. One is the tariff deliverance, which was made more emphatic than the platform committee proposed; the other is the silver plank, which does not at all suit the silver men's views. There can be no question that the tariff reform issue will be more prominent in this year's contest than it has been in any other, and it is significant that the Democrats see their way to taking very strong ground on this matter.

With their tickets complete and their platforms arranged the two parties now go into the fight which is to finish in November. To an outsider the battle seems to be on very even terms, and it would be hard to pick the winner with any degree of certainty. The chances seem to us to be slightly in favor of the Republicans, chiefly for the reason that Cleveland is menaced by the Hill-Tammany gang in New York, and without New York the Democratic party have not much hope of carrying the country. The disaffection of Blaine's sympathisers is by no means so formidable to Harrison as the antagonism of Tammany is to Cleveland. It may also turn out that the discontent of the free silver advocates and the People's Party will damage the Democratic cause in some of the states. Making allowance for all these things, it seems reasonable to expect a very close contest, which is likely to remain uncertain to the day of polling.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The county council of Bruce county, Ont., has shown itself a progressive and wideawake body. It has decided that the taxes for county purposes shall be nearly all raised on land values, only five per cent. being taken from personal property. The Henry George doctrine seems to be making progress.

Sir John Thompson has backed down from his purpose of gerrymandering Clarence township out of Russell and into Prescott. He has also given up the idea of tacking a part of Middlesex county on to London in order to aid Honest John Carling. West Toronto, instead of electing two members collectively, as proposed, is to be divided into two separate electoral districts. Finally New Westminster is also divided into two districts, one of which will include Vancouver city and the other New Westminster. These are important changes, and would seem to justify the Liberal opposition to the bill in its original shape. The worst features of the bill are yet left, nevertheless, namely, the gerrymanders of the Niagara peninsula, a portion of Quebec province and Prince Edward Island.

UNCALLED FOR "ACERBITY."

TO THE EDITOR:—I must certainly call "Jew" to task for his over-sensitiveness in dealing with the remarks of "Senex" in your contemporary of 22nd. I fail to see that the writer of the letter referred to displays any such sentiments as "Jew" would imply. On the contrary, I thought the wording of Senex's communication was graceful and to the point, and implied nothing of an objectionable nature in his reference to "Moses and the bulrushes." That he did not treat such a remark in any ribald sense I am sure; and we all know that christianity owes a great debt to Moses, the great law-giver, as do the Jews themselves; for without the Decalogue, we have no standard or code of morality or justice. In writing this, I am not actuated by any feeling but that of justice, as I am not aware of the identity of either "Senex" or "Jew," but hope the latter will judge more charitably of his neighbor as does ANOTHER JEW.

The celebration committee will have a surplus after paying all debts.

A man named Roach broke his leg while at work on the San Pedro yesterday.

The tramway track is being repaired at various portions of the line. The wire for the park extension route has arrived and is now being strung.

Two very successful strawberry festivals were held last evening, one in the Centennial Church, Gorge Road, and the other at the Emanuel Baptist church, Spring Ridge.

It is said that the notice boards at the ends of James Bay bridge are to be changed to read: "Any person going over this bridge at a faster pace than a walk will have to pay his own funeral expenses." Nobody is so madly rash as to attempt running over the bridge; the love of life is too strong in the average citizen's bosom.

A respectable vegetable Chinaman who does business in Yates street ward would be pleased to know who placed a dead cat in the bottom of one of his baskets this morning and covered the deceased over with onions and potatoes again. Chinese cuss words filled the atmosphere around John when he discovered the mortal remains in his panier.

WHARF AND WAVE.

Jottings of Interest to Marine Men Concisely Compiled.

Work was resumed at the steamer San Pedro to-day. If the present fine weather continues an attempt to raise the vessel will be made in a day or two.

Captain Ramsay brought the bark Irvine from the inner harbor this morning to Turner, Beeton & Co.'s wharf. The Irvine will be towed to Flattery and will load grain at Astoria for the United Kingdom.

The whale-back steamer Wetmore has lately been docked at San Francisco and a water space cut in her bow so as to bring it down and prevent the pitching, which made the craft entirely too lively in a seaway to be pleasant.

The last cargo of the Walla Walla from San Francisco contained 300 cases of salmon for Massachusetts and 150 bales of wool for Boston. This freight, which used to go East by the U. S. roads, is now being largely dispatched by the Canadian Pacific, which seems likely to get exclusive control of the shipments.

The steamer Monowai, which arrived last week from San Francisco, brought up from Australia 293 crates of onions, each crate containing 40 pounds. The shipment arrived just at the time when the Stockton and Sacramento River boats were flooding the markets with the same article, and in consequence the crates had to be sold at 15 cents each, not enough to pay the freight.

Special Meeting.

A special meeting of the Thunder Hill Mining Company is to be held at the office of W. H. Bainbridge, Douglas street, at 8 o'clock on Monday evening.

Another Switch.

The tramway company are putting down a switch at the corner of Store and Discovery streets. This will enable them to more conveniently handle the summer traffic to Esquimalt.

Kelp Reef.

The Dominion steamer Douglas, Captain Walbran, will leave port to-morrow morning at 5 o'clock to make an examination of Kelp Reef, near San Juan Island, preparatory to a stone beacon being erected there.

True Happiness.

True happiness comes not from the outward world about us, not even from the mind, but from the heart, and perfect happiness is found while playing the popular Bush & Girt's piano. T. W. Fletcher, sole agent, 37 Fort St.

New Uniforms.

The District telegraph and messenger boys came out to-day in their summer uniforms looking quite smart and cool. The uniforms are the same color as the old ones but slightly brighter. Manager White is bound that his boys will look their best.

Handsome Trophies.

The batteries of the B.C.B.G.A. will have something to drill for at the next inspection. The officers at a meeting held last evening decided to get a $200 trophy to be presented to the battery obtaining the most points in general proficiency. Lieut.-Col. Prior has also offered a magnificent cup.

New Premises.

W. S. Hampson & Co. have rented three stores in the Kirk block, on Douglas street, and will remove their stock thither about the 5th of July. The stores will be connected by wide archways, and will then be among the handsomest in the city, having 72 feet frontage. With such a fine front it will be possible to make a magnificent display of goods.

First Annual Convention.

The first annual convention of Methodist young people's societies in the province is to be held in Centennial Methodist Church, Gorge Road, beginning with a welcome meeting to the delegates, to be held to-morrow (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. The convention will continue on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. A large number of delegates will attend from the Mainland and Nanaimo.

A Regular Expose.

The tide this morning was so low that the fleet of small craft in James Bay had a rest in the mud for an hour. Taking advantage of the opportunity Mr. Dan MacIntosh got out his water telescope and gave the front of his premises a few searching looks, greatly to the mystification of a small crowd on the bridge, most of whom firmly believed that Dan was hailing Father Neptune through a big speaking trumpet.

Calling Down the Romans.

The shortcomings of Contractor McBean, of the sewerage works, were itemised with painful particularity last night by the irate councillors. The principal defect in his conduct seemed to be that he will not employ white men, but fills the ranks with Italians imported from San Francisco; "a class of men," as one alderman phrased it, "who do no good to this city." The suggestion that Italians are not white men was duly appreciated by the audience.

Sale To-morrow.

The sale of thoroughbred cattle, by Mr. George Byrnes, at the Fashion stables, Fort street, at 2 p.m, to-morrow, will offer an opportunity that seldom occurs to purchase a valuable milch cow of the superior Jersey breed. The animals are the property of Mr. W. Pike, Saturna Island, who imported them from Richardson's stock farm in Iowa, and therefore their pedigrees can be relied upon. Besides the Jerseys there will be offered several very fine driving and young horses, and altogether the sale out to bring together buyers who know a good animal when they see it. Very likely there will be bargains going.

Granted at Last.

The council last night granted permission to Mr. Redon to proceed with sewerage connections for the new Driard hotel, and the work will be commenced at once. The connections will be made along View to Broad and along Broad to Fort, where the tributary drain will join the main sewer. This is a work of considerable magnitude, but it is to be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. Mr. Redon takes his chances of reimbursement by the city for this work. The hotel has cost nearly $200,000. The opening will take place some time in July. The question of allowing the work of sewerage to proceed has been before the council for many weeks.

Their Salad Days.

A large crowd of small boys attired in abbreviated pantaloons made the echoes of the Arm ring again yesterday afternoon as they splashed around in the tepid water near Dead Man's Island. The caretaker of the water toboggan gazed wistfully over at the noisy urchins and wished they were old enough to appreciate the advantages of his slide as against the old pre-Adamite header. But they bobbed up serenely and screeched like juvenile locomotives to testify their complete enjoyment. In respone to a perspiring oarsman's query, "How's the water?" the whole crowd yelled with one voice, "Fine!" and then jumped "into the drink," as one of them said.

When Greek Meets Greek.

A case the result of Greek meeting Greek came up before the police court this morning. Joseph Callipero, an Athenian, was charged with assaulting George Nowls, presumably Spartan, but not a gladiator. The evidence showed that Callipero called on Nowls for two months rent for two cabins on Herald street. Nowls paid him $4, the usual amount paid, $1 a month for each, but took a receipt for $5. Callipero asked for the other dollar or the reciept, but Nowls refused to pay the exorbitant increase and would not give up the receipt. Then there was a scuffle for the possession of the paper, during which Newls had his nose hurt and an eye blackened, while Callipero's classic countenance was slightly scratched. The court dismissed the case. A common drunk was called on to pay the usual $5.

Borne to the Grave.

The funeral of the late Fred. S. Humber took place this afternoon at 2:30 from the residence, Topaze avenue, and at 3 o'clock from the Centennial Methodist Church, Gorge Road. The Rev. J. H. White held funeral services at the church and the grave.

Adjourned Till Monday.

The trustees to the Protestant orphans' home met this morning, but adjourned until next Monday morning at 10 without doing any business. A large number of tenders for sites have been received, and in the meantime the committee will visit the several sites and report at the meeting on Monday.

British Columbia Beef.

Joe Payne, manager for the Douglas Lake Cattle Company, of Nicola Valley, the largest ranching concern in the province, came over on the Islander last night. He brought down from Kamloops 250 head of beef cattle for Vancouver, Westminster and this city. This evening the Rithet brought over 140 of these beeves for Porter & Sons and John Parker. Mr. Payne says the heavy rains of this spring has helped the ranges, and cattle in the interior are in good condition generally. From now on the Douglas Lake Company will make fortnightly shipments to the coast cities.

From the North.

The steamer Barbara Boscowitz arrived down from the North last night, remaining at the outer wharf till this morning. The weather was fine and the voyage was a pleasant one throughout. There is no new word of the Quadra, but the Indians say she is still wrecked. The passengers were: D. A. Jones, T. G. Ellis, Dr. Bolton, W. P. Medd, H. Coldwell, A. O. Wheeler, F. A. Devereux and party of survevors, and Mmes. Mugridge and Munro, the ladies just mentioned making the round trip. A very small and very tame bear was brought down, and was a lively toy for the passengers.

The Happy-Go-Lucky Gossoon.

Carroll Johnson, in "The Gossoon," to be presented at the Victoria Theatre this evening and to-morrow, has found a character peculiarly suited to him. He makes of the good-natured squire a graceful, amusing, lovable happy-go-lucky, but always manly, youngster. Incidentally he sings a number of pretty songs, and dances with all the grace of old-time days. Clancy O'Connell, the Gossoon, the leading character in the play, represents the refined side of the Irish nature. He is a rollicking young squire, and the size of his generous heart may be measured by the fact that his tenants borrow the money from him with which to pay him their rents. As portrayed by Mr. Johnson, the part is the very incarnation of sunshine and love, with a humorous streak of the happy, devil-may-care touch of irresponsibility that makes the Irish nature so lovable and interesting. The reserve plan can be seen at Jamieson's; the seats have sold rapidly.

DEATH OF JAMES STEWART.

One of the Earliest Residents of the Province Passes Away.

James Stewart, who for the past 30 years has been farming on Vancouver Island, in the vicinity of Victoria, died at his residence on the Sea View farm, this morning. The deceased came to Victoria with the McKenzies and Langfords, of the Puget Sound Company, and lived with them for nine years at Craigflower. In 1862 he took charge of a piece of land on Esquimalt harbor for Dr. Helmcken. He remained on that farm until the time of his death, helping to turn the dense forests into productive fields. He had a good deal to contend with in his early days and little if any machinery to help him, but he nevertheless converted the Sea View farm into one of the prettiest on the island. Mr. Stewart was very highly respected by all who knew him, and consequently numbers many friends among the old timers of the city and district. The deceased was a native of Gifford, Haddingtonshire, Scotland, and was 64 years of age. He leaves a widow, four sons and a daughter.

The funeral will take place on Saturday at 1 o'clock.

Mr. W. Martius, graduate of the Kullak conservatory, Berlin, has come to Victoria highly recommended as an organist and teacher of the piano. He has taken rooms at 10 Blanchard street and is prepared to receive pupils who earnestly intend to take thorough technical and musical instructions.

The three senior divisions of the Boys' and Girls' Central Schools and the fourth division of the High School held their closing examinations in the gymnasium this afternoon. The programme of exercises rendered by the pupils was perhaps the most interesting yet presented, while the way the older scholars worked out problems and answered questions on different subjects puzzled many an older head. CHAPTER XII.

THE WOLF BRETHREN.

Now on the morrow night once again Galazi took up his tale.

"I passed on till I came to the river. It was still full, but the water had run down a little, so that my feet found foothold. I waded into the river, using the Watcher as a staff, and the stream reached to my elbows, but no higher. Now one on the farther bank of the river saw that which sat upon my shoulders and saw also the wolfskin on my head, and ran to the kraal, crying, 'Here comes one who walks the waters on the back of a wolf.' So it came about that as I drew toward the kraal all the people of the kraal were gathered together to meet me except the old woman, who could not walk so far. But when they saw me coming up the slope of the hill, and when they saw what it was that sat upon my shoulders, they were smitten with fear. Yet they did not run because of their great wonder, only they walked backward before me, clinging to each other and speaking no word. And I too came on silently, till at length I reached the kraal, and before its gates sat the old woman basking in the sun of the afternoon. Presently she looked up and cried, 'What ails you, people of my house, that you walk backward like men bewitched, and who is that tall and deathly man who comes toward you?'

"But still they drew on backward, saying no word, till they passed the old wife and ranged themselves behind her like a regiment of soldiers. Then they halted against the fence of the kraal. But I came on to the old woman and lifted him who sat upon my shoulders and placed him on the ground before her, saying: 'Woman here is your son.

He lifted the spear in his hand and drove it down between the bull's shoulders.

I have snatched him with much toil from the jaws of the ghosts, all save one foot, which I could not find. Take him now and bury him, for I weary of his fellowship.'

"She looked upon that which sat before her. She put out her withered hand and drew the bandage from his sunken eyes. Then she screamed aloud a shrill scream, and flinging her arms about the neck of the dead one she cried: 'It is my son whom I bore—my very son, whom for twice ten years and half a ten I have not looked upon. Greeting, my son, greeting. Now shalt thou find burial, and I with thee—aye, I with thee!' Then of a sudden a foam burst from her lips and she fell forward upon the body of her son and was dead.

"On the morrow at dawn I rose and shook the dew from the red wolf hide. Then I went on into the forest and howled like a wolf. They heard me—the ghost wolves—and howled in answer from far and near. Then I heard the pattering of their feet, and they came around me by tens and by twenties and fawned upon me. I counted their number—they numbered three hundred and sixty and three.

"Afterward I went on to the cave, and I have lived here in the cave, Umslopogaas, for nigh upon twelve moons, and I have become a wolf man. For with the wolves I hunt, and what I bid them that they do. Stay, Umslopogaas, now you are strong again, and you shall see this very night."

Then Umslopogaas rose and laughed aloud. "I am young in years," he cried, "and scarcely come to the full strength of men, yet hitherto I have not turned my back on lion or witch, on wolf or man. Now let us see this impi of yours—this impi black and gray, that runs on four legs, with fangs for spears!"

"You must first bind on the she wolf's hide," quoth Galazi, "else before a man could count his fingers twice there would be little enough left of you."

So Umslopogaas took the gray wolf's hide and bound it on with thongs of leather, and its teeth gleamed upon his head, and he took a spear in his hand. Galazi also bound on the hide of the king of the wolves, and they went out on to the space before the cave. Galazi stood there awhile and the moonlight fell upon him, and Umslopogaas saw that his face grew wild and beastlike, that his eyes shone and his teeth grinned beneath his curling lips. He lifted up his head and howled out upon the night. Thrice Galazi lifted up his head, and thrice he howled loudly, and yet more loud. But before ever the echoes had died upon the air there came howlings in answer. Nearer they grew and nearer. Now there was a sound of feet and a wolf, great and gray, bounded toward them, and after him many another. They came to Galazi, they sprang upon him, fawning around him, but he beat them down with the Watcher. Then of a sudden they saw Umslopogaas, and rushed at him open mouthed.

"Stand, and do not move!" cried Galazi. "Be not afraid!"

"I have ever fondled dogs," answered Umslopogaas. "Shall I learn to fear them now?"

Yet though he spoke boldly in his heart he was afraid. The wolves rushed on him open mouthed, so that in a breath he was well nigh hidden by their forms. Yet no fang pierced him, for as they leaped they smelled the smell of the skin upon him and dropped down at his feet, fawning and licking him. Then Umslopogaas saw that the wolves leaped at him no more, but the she wolves gathered around him who wore the she wolf's skin. They were great and gaunt and hungry, and their number was so many that he could not count them. Umslopogaas, looking on their red eyes, felt his heart become as the heart of a wolf, and he, too, lifted up his head and howled, and the she wolves howled in answer.

"The pack is gathered; now for the hunt," cried Galazi. "Make your feet swift, my brother, for we shall journey far tonight. Ho, Blackfang! Ho, Graysnout! Ho, my people, black and gray, away, away!"

He spoke and bounded forward, and with him went Umslopogaas and after them streamed the ghost wolves. Presently they stood by a kloof that was thick with wood. Galazi stopped, holding up the Watcher, and with him stopped the wolves.

"I smell a quarry!" he cried. "In, my people, in!"

Then the wolves plunged silently into the great kloof, but Galazi and Umslopogaas drew to the foot of it and waited. Presently there came a sound of breaking boughs, and lo! before them stood a buffalo, a bull, who lowed fiercely and sniffed the air.

"This one will give us a good chase, my brother."

As Galazi spoke the first of the wolves drew from the covert and saw the buffalo; then, giving tongue, they sprang toward it. The bull saw also, and dashed down the hill, and after him came Galazi and Umslopogaas, and with them all their company. On rushed the bull, mad with fear. He rushed so swiftly that the wolves were left behind, since here for a space the ground was level to his feet. Galazi looked on Umslopogaas at his side and grinned.

"You do not run so ill, my brother, who have been sick of late. See now if you can outrun me! Who shall touch the quarry first?"

Now the bull was ahead by two spear throws. Umslopogaas looked and grinned back at Galazi. "Good!" he cried. "Away!"

They sped forward with a bound, and for awhile it seemed to Umslopogaas as though they stood side by side, only the bull grew nearer and nearer. Then he put out his strength and the swiftness of his feet, and lo! when he looked again he was alone, and the bull was very near. Never were feet so swift as those of Umslopogaas. Now he reached the bull as he labored on. Umslopogaas placed his hands upon the back of the bull and leaped; he was on him; he sat him as you white men sit a horse. Then he lifted the spear in his hand and drove it down between the shoulders to the spine, and of a sudden the great buffalo staggered, stopped and fell dead.

Then Galazi came up. "Who, now, is the swiftest, Galazi," cried Umslopogaas, "I, or you or your wolf host?"

"You are the swiftest, Umslopogaas," said Galazi, gasping for his breath. "Never did a man run as you run, nor ever shall again."

Now the wolves came up and would have torn the carcass, but Galazi beat them back. Then Galazi said, "Let us cut meat from the bull with a spear."

So they cut meat, and when they had finished, Galazi motioned to the wolves and they fell upon the carcass. In a little while nothing was left except the larger bones, and yet each wolf had but a little.

Then they went back to the cave and slept.

Afterward Umslopogaas told Galazi all his tale, and Galazi asked him if he would abide with him and be his brother, and rule with him over the wolf kind, or seek his father Mopo at the kraal of Chaka.

Umslopogaas said it was rather in his mind to seek his sister Nada, for he was weary of the kraal of Chaka, but he thought on Nada day and night.

"Where, then, is Nada, your sister?" asked Galazi.

"She tarries in the caves of your people, Galazi; she tarries with the Halakazi."

"Stay awhile, Umslopogaas," cried Galazi; "stay till we are men indeed. Then we will seek this sister of yours and snatch her from the caves of the Halakazi."

Now the desire of this wolf life had entered into the heart of Umslopogaas, and he said that it should be so, and on the morrow they made them blood brethren to be one till death, before all the company of the ghost wolves, and the wolves howled when they smelled the blood of men. In all things henceforth these two were equal, and the ghost wolves hearkened to the voice of both of them.

Now when Umslopogaas had abode some moons in the Witch mountain, on a night he dreamed of Nada, and awakening soft at heart bethought him that he would learn tidings concerning me, his father, Mopo, and what had befallen me and her whom he deemed his mother, and Nada, his sister, and his other brethren. So he dressed himself, hiding his nakedness, and, leaving Galazi, descended to the kraal where the old woman had dwelt, and there gave it out that he was a young man, a chief's son from a far place, who sought a wife. The people of the kraal listened to him, though they held that his look was fierce and wild, and one asked if this were Galazi the Wolf—Galazi the Wizard. But another answered that this was not Galazi, for their eyes had seen him. Umslopogaas said that he knew nothing of Galazi and little of wolves, and lo! while he spoke there came an impi of fifty men and entered the kraal. Umslopogaas looked at the leaders of the impi and knew them for captains of Chaka. At first he would have spoken to them, but his Ehlose bade him hold his peace. So he sat in the corner of the big hut and listened. Presently the headman of the kraal, who trembled with fear, for he believed that the impi had been sent to destroy him and all that were his, asked of the captain what was his will.

"A little matter and a vain," said the captain. "We are sent by the king to search for a certain youth, Umslopogaas, son of Mopo, the king's doctor. Mopo gave it out that the youth was slain by a lion near these mountains, and Chaka would learn if this be true."

"We know nothing of the youth," said the head man. "But what would ye of him?"

"Only this," answered the captain, "to kill him."

"That is yet to do," thought Umslopogaas.

"Who is this Mopo?" asked the headman.

"An evildoer, whose house the king has eaten up, man, woman and child," answered the captain.

A Druggist's Story.

I deliberately chose my calling and studied for it, so that I have nothing against the profession to which my life must henceforth be devoted. But, sir, I believe that drug clerks, particularly in the large cities, are the hardest worked, poorest paid and least appreciated people in the community.

In our keeping even more than in that of the doctors who prescribe is the public health. We must keep our brains clear and be ready to fill a prescription when called from our beds at 2 o'clock in the morning as accurately as at high noon.

Some time ago I was myself under the weather. The hard work was telling on me and I was threatened with insomnia and fever. One midnight, while I was in this condition, I was rung up, and with tottering steps and a reeling brain I made my way down to the store.

I found a boy awaiting me, from a house near by, with a prescription calling for a number of half grain morphine powders. The doctor who wrote the prescription was a friend of mine and a very careful man. The powders were for an old gentleman who had been ailing for some time, and I knew they were intended to induce sleep.

I filled the prescription, properly as I thought, and when the boy left I returned to bed. As I could not rest, I was up early and down stairs.

Like a dream I recalled the morphine prescription. I read it over; yes, the powders were to be one-half grain each, taken as directed.

I looked at the scales; they had not been touched since I handled them, but I was frozen with horror when I saw that there was a ten grain weight on one side. I had given the man enough morphine to kill a dozen men, for there were four powders.

It is impossible to describe the torture that followed. I felt that I had committed an unpremeditated murder. I shrank at the sound of every footstep, and shuddered when any one entered the store.

About 9 o'clock my friend, Dr. Rupert, came in with a very sad face, and in answer to my inquiry as to the health of Mr. Wheeler, the man for whom the medicine had been prescribed, he said:

"The man is dead."

"My God!" I gasped.

"Oh," said the doctor, "I fully expected it. The morphine was simply intended to ease him off."

"But did he take it?"

"No; by the time the boy got back with the medicine the old man was dead."

Language is all too weak to picture my joy on learning this.

I kept my secret to myself and secured the powders as soon as possible. From that day to this I never make up a prescription when my hand is not steady and my brain clear.

Tears and Valor.

As is well known, the late General Sherman was very fond of the theater, and even during the war, whenever he was in a position to see a play, good, bad or indifferent, he availed himself of it.

While he was in command at Memphis in the winter of 1862-3, a theatrical company from the north applied for permission to play in the towns between Cairo and Memphis, and it was granted.

This company was above the average, and it was well patronized while in Memphis, the general being present nearly every night, and laughing and applauding in that hearty, wholesome way that was so peculiar to him.

One night this company played Katzebue's "Stranger," and during one of the most pathetic scenes a staff officer, seated by General Sherman, touched him and whispered:

"Well, what of him?" asked the general.

"He is crying," chuckled the officer.

"Crying, eh?"

"Yes, sir; blubbering like a boy," laughed the officer.

General Sherman looked the man full in the eye and said, with an oath that did not sound like profanity:

"There are times, sir, when tears become the honest man, and I think this is one of them. Hereafter I shall watch Captain L——, for I am now sure that he is a kind hearted man, and such a man will show himself to be the most fearless soldier when the time comes."

And, as usual, the general was right.

Interesting Superstitions.

Children in the south have some very interesting superstitions.

For instance, in making a wish which they are anxious to have come true they pick up a stone that is imbedded in the ground, spit on the underside and replace it, being careful to fit it in just as it was, by so doing they think they will "get their wish."

The same method is used for curing toothache, but first the gum around the tooth is pricked until it bleeds. Warts also are removed in this way.

They believe that a tooth that is extracted should always be buried; otherwise the coming one will be a dog's tooth.—New York World.

INDUCTION OF DR. CAMPBELL.

He is Formally Given Charge of the First Presbyterian Church.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian church is no longer without a pastor, yesterday evening Rev. John Campbell, M.A., Ph. D., being formally inducted to the charge. At 7:30 o'clock the Presbytery met in the church parlors when the preliminary steps were perfected, and Dr. Campbell given an informal welcome.

At 8 o'clock the services in the church commenced. The auditorium was filled to the doors and the solemn and impressive proceedings will not be soon forgotten by the congregation. The services were opened by the singing of the 100th Psalm, and after the reading of scripture and prayer, Rev. Mr. McMillan, of Vancouver, preached the induction sermon from the text, "And Jesus answered, thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart"—Matthew, 26th chapter, 36th verse. He impressed upon his hearers the necessity of thorough consecration and close communion between God and man.

Rev. D. McRae, Moderator of the Presbytery, reviewed the steps leading to the call of Dr. Campbell, and the acceptance of this call by the rev. gentleman.

Rev. Mr. Jameson, of Westminster, according to the prescribed form of the Presbyterian church, questioned Dr. Campbell as to his belief in the principles of the church, and these being answered satisfactorily, he was formally declared pastor of the congregation.

The charge to the new pastor was delivered by Rev. P. McF. McLeod, who extended to him a hearty welcome to the city, referring to his former friendly relations with Dr. Campbell, and also with the late pastor of the church, Rev. D. Fraser, and expressed the hope that this friendship might increase, and that the greatest success might attend the labors of the reverend doctor in his new field. He also made kindly reference to the departure of Dr. Campbell from those who had learned to love him well, and expressed confidence that he would soon win the affection of his new congregation. Rev. Donald Fraser's life and death he also referred to in eloquent terms, and cautioned the new pastor while laboring zealously in the Lord's vineyard, not to undertake more than his share of the work, that he might be long spared to continue his efforts for the glory of his Master.

Rev. Mr. Mills, of Westminster, delivered the charge to the congregation, pointing out their duties to their pastor, emphasizing the fact that while Dr. Campbell was their pastor he was also the ambassador of the Lord, and that the efforts of the people as well as the pastor were necessary to successfully carry on the work.

After the benediction had been invoked, the congregation dispersed. Rev. Dr. Campbell met the members and the adherents of the church at the door, and a hearty handshake was exchanged on parting.

Rev. Dr. Campbell enters on his new duties with bright hopes and prospects, and has already won the sympathy and respect of his people.

A reception and welcome will be given Dr. Campbell by the congregation to-morrow evening in the school room, which promises to be a very sociable affair.

The Development of Andirons.

It is curious to note how the taste for ornament has developed various features of the andiron. The crossbar, not unusual in large wrought iron andirons, was originally a simple unornamented piece of iron, designed as a foot rest, in order that wet and muddy boots might be dried by the wearer in front of the burning logs. The bar nowadays is incrusted with so many ornaments that it has ceased to be a comfortable footrest. The supplementary shaft on large andirons had originally a single knob of iron, intended to prevent the burning logs from rolling too far forward and to serve one office of the creeper, but now it has developed into a variety of forms, many of them highly ornamental.

Various rings and hooks for the hanging of cooking utensils have developed into mere ornaments, the practice of cooking before an open fire having given way before the advance of the kitchen range and the gas stove. The defect of the elaborate modern andirons lies partly in the fact that designers have been ignorant or regardless of the uses for which features of the old andirons were intended, and have developed them into meaningless ornament. A recent design is a pair of andirons having large ornamental gates, evidently a development of the old foot rest.—New York Sun.

Two Rare French Coins.

Numismatists or coin collectors have interesting objects of search in two coins which belong to the transition period between the French republic and the Second Empire. One of these is an extremely rare coin which was struck off just at the moment of the assumption of the reins of empire by Napoleon III. Only the die for the obverse or head of a new imperial coin had been completed, and by some accident, or possibly by mischievous design, a coin was struck off which bore the head of "Napoleon III, Emperor," on one side and "French Republic" on the other.

This contradictory coin is of interest to others than numismatists, for it symbolizes in a striking way the many sudden changes which have taken place in French politics in the past century.

With the other coin a singular story is connected. While Louis Napoleon was "prince president," and just before he made himself emperor, a decree was issued ordering a five franc silver piece to be coined bearing his image.

The dies were made, and one coin was struck off as a sample and sent to the prince-president for approval. But some time passed before he examined it. When at last he gave it his attention he was annoyed to find that he had been represented on the coin with a "love lock," or hooked lock of hair on the temple, which he did actually wear at that period, but which he thought unsuitable to so dignified and permanent a representation of himself as an effigy upon a coin.

The prince-president sent for the director of the mint and ordered him to remove the "love lock." Then he found that his silence with regard to the piece had been taken for approval, and that the stamping of the coins had commenced.

The work was stopped and the image deprived of its undignified lock, but the twenty-three coins that had already been struck off were not destroyed, and are now regarded as of great value.—Youth's Companion.

Gearless Electrical Motors.

The gearless motor, for use on electric roads, is rapidly coming to the front. A paper read before the Chicago Electric club by Professor A. H. Short gives a complete and satisfactory report of the comparative efficiencies of the double reduction, single reduction and gearless type of motors, and urges the two strong points of increased efficiency and decreased expense for repairs in favor of the gearless type.—New York World.

THE USUAL COMPLAINTS AT THIS SEASON.

How the Difficulties are Removed.

"I am tired, weary and run-down!" "The hot weather oppresses me, and I feel used up!" These are very common remarks at this season of the year, and in all cases come from men and woman who are in bad health. The healthy man and woman are not oppressed by the warm weather, they have a stock of strength and vitality to resist the enervating and weakening effects of any sudden change of temperature. It is different, however, with the weak, wearied, run down, sleepless, dyspeptic, morose and despondent; the hot weather to them conduces to extreme weakness, insomnia and irritability; and unless great care is observed and prompt action taken, sickness and disease will prostrate them.

There is only one sensible course for such individuals to pursue; there is only one safe avenue of escape from dreadful consequences. The grand deliverer and rescuer from danger, is Paine's Celery Compound; to this remedy must our people fly, if they would shake off ill health and coming sickness. It is able to take away every trace of disease, and leaves the subject in such a condition, that work and duty become pleasureable, and life in all its varied forms is enjoyable.

Reader, if you are not feeling as you should feel, at this time, act wisely; give the Compound a trial, and you will be agreeably surprised at the results.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

Matters of Interest Going Forward in the Sporting World, Here and Elsewhere.

LACROSSE.

TO THE EDITOR:—In view of recent disclosures here and elsewhere in the province, it is exceedingly difficult to suppress the feeling that the honor of our national game on the Pacific slope is in the keeping of weak vessels, and that the inroad already made upon the fair fame of those having no higher aims than the gratification of a species of low cunning—whereby they barter principle and pocket the price of their perfidy—calls loudly for decisive measures, that these demoralizing tactics may be put down with a strong hand. It is bad enough, indeed too bad, that this manly exhibition of skill should be made an occasion for encouraging the gambling propensities of the every day public, but when we read of those actually engaged in the play, or as judges, so manipulating the game as to rob their neighbor, language fails to express the contempt merited. Whether this debasing crookedness be confined to individuals or teams, the cause of offence must be rooted out by the association in a manner that will commend itself to the loyal and the true, and exert a salutary influence on those who may be fostering crooked tendencies.

ONLOOKER.

BOARDERS CHALLENGE.

The batch of young men (all lacrossists) who board, lodge and hibernate at the famous hostelry known as the "Bores' Nest," corner of Douglas and Pandora streets, by reason of their sumptuous faring have became filled with a spirit of bravado and issued a challenge to any other boarding house or hotel in the city, to play a game of lacrosse. The Bores are: G. Whitelaw, R. Frost, D. Tudhope, P. Brown, J. Cox, A. E. Wade, A. Belfry, F. Doherty, D. Trapp, H. Sturdy, T. Grant, J. Hyland, and C. Blain, spare man—very spare. The match will be played for a handsome antique china cup now held by Ah Sow, chef de cuisine, at the Bores' Nest.

SPECIAL CLUB MEETING.

Notices have been issued for a general special meeting of the Victoria Lacrosse Club to be held this evening at 8 o'clock, to consider business arising out of the meeting held on Tuesday evening. The Doherty matter may be reconsidered.

THE WHEEL.

CANADIAN HANDICAP.

There were 44 starters in the great Canadian handicap road race at Toronto on the 13th, the biggest field ever gotten together in a single race in this country. R. Jaffray, of the Toronto Wanderers, a dark horse, ran away from the cracks for first place, finishing the 25 miles in 1 hour, 28 minutes and 15 seconds. A. W. Palmer, who has never been beaten in a road test, won the time prize. He alone started from scratch and passed 36 men before the finish, coming in 7th. His time was 1 hour, 20 minutes and 5 seconds. F. W. Doll and C. McQuillan, of the Wanderers' Bicycle Club, made the next fastest trips, their times being respectively 1 hour 20 minutes and 15 seconds, and hour 20 minutes and 20 seconds. Jaffray's prize is a comet pneumatic bicycle, while Palmer gets a solid gold watch. Both Palmer and Jaffray rode pneumatic Rudge wheels.

THE RING.

FIGHT TO A FINISH.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Billy Frazier's bout with Jack McAuliffe last night at the Manhattan Athletic club is likely to result in the death of the Boston man. When Frazier failed to respond to the call of his second to get up and get out of the ring, he was shaken gently and then raised up in a sitting position. His eyes were closed and his breathing was scarcely perceptible. Four physicians were summoned. By rubbing and chaffing they tried to restore the pugilist's consciousness, this failing they jabbed sharp needles in the man's feet but without much effect. Frazier was taken to Boston in a half conscious condition at midnight. The physicians thought he had very little chance of living.

CANADIAN NOTES.

News by Mail and Wire from all Parts of the Dominion.

Pontiac nominations for the House of Commons: John Bryson, Conservative; Thomas Murray, Liberal.

The report is current that Hon. G. W. Ross, Minister of Education of Ontario, is likely to resign on account of his health.

The will of the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie shows an estate worth $53,000. It provides an annuity of $1500 for the widow.

E. E. Bouchard, of St. Johns, Que., employed in the French translators' office in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, dropped dead.

A warrant is out at Thamesville for the arrest of John Jaques, a married man of 40 years, for the abduction of Maggie Cowan. The girl left ostensibly to go to a neighbor's.

The Quebec Government's levy of $100 per year on the wholesale houses is strongly condemned by the trade in Montreal. The small houses object to paying as much as the big firms.

Hon. Thomas Ballantyne, speaker of the Ontario Legislature, has been appointed by the Woodstock Board of Trade to represent it at the congress of the Chambers of Commerce in London.

The Globe says it is informed that Hon. Edward Blake has been offered one of the seats for Longford by the Irish Nationalists. Both the Longfords returned Nationalists by acclamation in 1886.

The Anglican, Presbyterian, Congregational and Baptist ministers of London recently left the Western Ontario Bible Society in a body, and now the Methodist clergymen are withdrawing from the local ministerial association.

Miss Grace MacIntosh of Vancouver has been awarded the highest honor in the gift of the Presbyterian Young Ladies' College at Brantford, a gold medal for general proficiency in the senior class, and also a silver medal for Bible literature.

Wm. Johnston, advocate, of Macleod, formerly of Regina, who was charged with obtaining from the Dominion Government money under false pretenses, by forged evidence and certificates at a coroner's inquest, has been sentenced to a term of 22 months in the Regina jail.

The Dominion W.C.T.U. have elected the following officers for the year: President, Mrs. Williams; vice-president, Mrs. Foster Knowlton; correspondent secretary, Mrs. Tilley; recording secretary, Mrs. A. W. Rutherford, and treasurer, Mrs. Tilton, Ottawa. The next meeting will probably be held in Winnipeg.

Elgin Meyers, County Crown Attorney of Dufferin, has been dismissed by the Ontario Government on account of the prominent part he took in the annexation movement. Sir Oliver Mowat complained to him, but he persisted in continuing openly to support the movement. The Premier then asked him to resign. This he refused, and in one of his letters to the Deputy Attorney-General he says: "I can only express my surprise at your suggesting that I should, by resigning, become a party to my own condemnation. I will leave to the Government of Ontario, which is a professedly Liberal Government, representative of the Liberal sentiment and the upholder of free speech, the full odium of dismissing one of its officials for expressing his opinions on a matter in which the Government has no more right to interfere than it has with the expressions of a man's religious views." Sir Oliver then called a Cabinet council and it was decided to dismiss him.

Commenting editorially on President Harrison's message to Congress touching the tolls on the Welland canal, the Empire says:—"If Congress should see fit to resent the tolls paid on the Welland canal by imposing tolls on our vessels temporarily using the Soo canal, it would, in our opinion, be the duty of Parliament to step in and pay the tolls till such time as Canada has its own complete waterway connection from the head of Lake Superior to the Atlantic ocean." The Ottawa Citizen in discussing the situation, says: "President Harrison has already commenced his campaign by sending a message to Congress recommending that the United States proceed to retaliate against Canada for the discrimination which, he declares, the Dominion has made against the United States, depriving them of their treaty rights to use the Canadian canals. This movement is of a similar nature to that of Cleveland, who also wrote a message in August, 1888, advising the adoption of retaliatory measures against Canada. It seems to be a favorite device with presidents and candidates to display hostility to this country upon the eve of an election, for the purpose of curying favor with the anti-British element among the American electors:"
